Steve Bowe Releases "Night On The Town"

BoweMusic is pleased to announce the release of "Night On The Town", the latest single from Steve Bowe.

"Night On The Town" was originally slated to be part of the album "Finest Hour", however the decision was taken on artistic and technical grounds to remove it from the album and release it separately.

Featuring Pauline Evans and Joanne Tanton on vocals, the song is an homage to RAF pilots during the Battle of Britain who liked to play hard after facing death on a daily basis.

Performed in a "Big Band" style which is a reference to the popular music of the day, the song is fun and light-hearted, but with a dark tone underlying it, with the unspoken spectre of comrades not returning hanging over the celebrations.

Steve Bowe is one of the most exciting new composers to emerge in recent years, taking his inspiration from the great film score composers and virtuoso performers of recent times. This song marks a slight departure from his usual style, thus its exclusion from the "Finest Hour" album but its infectious melody and rhythm merit a release in its own right.

"Night On The Town" is available to download from iTunes and is also available on Spotify. Further information and is available on the BoweMusic website, and a full length version can be found on YouTube (also via the BoweMusic website).
